THE FORCES OF NATURE.

It is said that the shores of France are sinking so rapidly that in twenty centuries the French capital will have become entirely submerged.

DUNING one year the sun attracts toward the skies and makes clouds of fourteen feet of the entire sea-oceans everywhere-much of which is precipi-tated as rain on land, and flows back by rivers into the sea. A RECENT survey has established the number of glaciers in the Alps at 1.255, of which 249 have a length of more than 4% miles. The French Alps contain 144 glaciers those of Italy seventy-eight Switzerland 471 and Austria 462. Tables of the density of the atmosphere, calculated from telegraphic weather reports, have been fou give a better clew to the movements and origin of cyclones than the usual method of a comparison of the isobarz and isothermes alone.

The most recent observations as to the amount of heat the earth receiver from the sun show that in clear, pleas art weather 63% per cent. of heat is absorbed by the atmosphere and only 16)4 per cent. reaches the soil. This figure rises in October to 41 per cent. and sinks to 28 per cent. in January. LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEES.
